THE HOW OF IT.

How poor, how rich, how abject, how angust, how complicated, how wonderful is man; and it might be added, how "more so" is woman. With ther peculiarly deit-cate and intense organization, she is the superlative degree of man. Even in diseases she excels him, having many that he has not. She has, however, found out a crand reaching sentifor the cure of her nas not. She has, however, found out a grand remedial agent, for the cure of her diseases, in Dr. Piercels Favorite Prescription; a medicine suited to her nature mone for the express cure of those diseases which affect her. It is especially effective in all weaknesses incidental to motherhood, while it is also a potent restorative tonic for the feeble and debilitated generally.

Wooderful Intelligence of Birds. Dr C C Abbott says that in experi menting on the intelligence of birds he placed a number of pieces of woolen yarn—red, yellow, green, purple and gray in color—near a tree in which Bal timore orioles were building their nes The pieces of yarn were all exactly whike except in color. There was an equal number of threads of each color, the red and yellow being purposely placed on top The birds chose only the duller colors, taking all of the gray and a few threads of the purple when the nest was nearly done. Not a single thread of the yellow or bright red was touched, the birds seeming to instinctively know that such loud colors would make their, domicale too conspications.

Again he experimented by girdling branches upon which nests were located, causing the leaves to shrivel and blow away Although they had laid their eggs, the birds invariably laft young when the leaves dried up, notwithstanding the exposure, they would feed the little ones until they were able to take care of themselves.—St. Louis

A Pon Picture of a South American Port The two principal ports for shipping oranges are San Lorenzo and San An-We stayed at the laster, a love ly spot on the Paraguay Aver, with a and of vellow sand, bunks fringed some of them forming masses of lilac bloom. The port consists of a square of sand, with the cabin and flag of the custom house, or resquardo, and a short wooden fetty to the right A roughly traced road leading into the interior past a sort of store or tambo, and to the left a large tent stretched over paim poles, with a lattice floor made of

This tent was full of oranges, on the sand outside were other mountains of oranges, and carts drawn by yokes of two or four oven, preceded by the driver, wearing a long poncho and carrying a bamboo goad, kept groaning and creaking down the slope, and depositing other golden piles along the beach. Under the shady curtain of trees were seated groups of men. Wemen and children, with oranges, bana nas, mandioca, parrots, blue jays and monkeys, which they hope to sell, but at the same time make no effort to offer their merchandise, preferring to remain calm and indifferent, sucking nate through silver bombillas.

The steamship is moored alongside. and a long gangway of planks is laid on high trestles from the paddle box to the shore, then, when all is ready; about sixty women and girls and ten men set to work, some to carry baskets full of oranges, others to hand the base kets from beside the paddle box to the upper deck, others to pass the baskets on from this point to the corral or inclosure that has been built behind the pilot house, and others still to pass down the empty baskets. The carry ing is all done by women who form a procession passing continuously up and and down the gangway and generally

They are Paraguay ins, Guaranis and other Indians and mulattoes of various shades, clad in white rose, scarlet, yet low and other bright colored Manches ter cotton stuffs all are bandooted, and most of them are without be auty but gay and ready to laugh and scream without pretext merely for the sake of being lively and making a noise. They are like birds and monkeys Hour after hour this operation goes on Women and young girls alike have cience in dered difficult by the overlanging trees and so one remains laming over the rul and watching the women and girls toding while the men husbands, futhers or brothers. In for the shore, smoke or play cirds according to the custom of Pirionaly where the women do the work while the meaning life The steumer was supposed to take # 250 000 oranges but there being no means of control it is probable that in order to allow for loss the shipper put on board at least 300 000. Thise on board at least 300 000 oranges of fine flavor and aspect are worth one Paraguayan dollar a thou sand at San Antonio The women who carry the baskets on their heads, are paid eighty centavos a day and the harvest of the fruit lasts eight months, beginning at the end of May The freight from Paraguay to Campana, and from Campana by schooner to La Boca, together with the loss from pu trefaction and rough handling during the journey' brings the retail price of a good orange in Buenos Ayres to about two certa.-Theodore Child in Har-

Abusing a Kleker It may be true that people have a certain sort of dread of a kicker ' and they may occasionally grant him favors rather than engage in a quarrel, but in the long run the "kicker" is not a successful man. The people finally get even with him We have noticed that the best business men, and the men who make a great st cress of any thing are not 'kickers". It is not a good business policy to quarrel over

everything
There is fault enough to be found but it is not good policy to be always grounding and complaining There are oversions when it becomes a man s duty to kick, and kick' hard but these are rare. As a rule people are disposed to grant a man his rights. If it would do any good to kick" for rain curing a drouth we should believe in it, but the futs seem to be that * Licking gener y gives a man a bad, temper and nothing else — Steinson
